Man, son perish in flood, mud slide Sunday

A lone auto still parked in the lot at Bailey Canyon was the first tipoff that not everyone had survived the flood and mud slide in Bailey Canyon late Sunday. Sierra Madre officers determined that the registered owner of the auto was John Henderson, 33, of Sierra Madre. He had taken his 9-year-old son, Matthew, of Arcadia, hiking that afternoon and had not returned.

A shoe worn by Matthew was discovered in the catch basin by County Flood Control personnel Monday. The search was hampered with a second downpour that afternoon, causing additional mud and debris to flow into the basin area.

A sock, found in Bailey Canyon above the debris basin could not be identified by John Henderson's brother Tuesday afternoon.

Local police expect the operation to last for several days.

Charles Corp

Charles Corp, former mayor of Sierra Madre and avid hiker for about 45 years, was probably the last person to see the Hendersons alive. He said he had talked with a father and son combination moments before the wall of mud came roaring down the mountain. They were on the canyon floor.

"I was going up the east side and had crossed the stream which was a teacup full of water. That was at about 4:30 Sunday afternoon. I could hear the roar, like a distant jet plane. The man and his son came up and asked what that noise was and I told them that it had to be water. We were close to the stream when the roar increased. Then a 10- to 15-foot stream of boiling mud, sludge, logs, boulders came down," Corp remembered.

How close was he to the stream? He laughed ruefully and said, "About 15 feet then and seconds later I was 35 feet away."

He said, "It was absolutely unprecedented. I never saw anything like it before. The bridge was quickly gone and the roadway was full of mud. It was absolutely overwhelming. It took a long time to diminish."

Corp has hiked all of the Sierra Nevada chain, the San Gabriels and San Bernardinos. "I've hiked 140 of the peaks over 5000 feet," he explained. "I was caught in a rain storm in the San Gabriel River once and had a hard time getting out. You can expect that. But this big, ugly, boiling stream of mud—I never want to see that again."

Did he ever fear for his life? "I realized the enormous danger but could move out of the way. I put myself in peril. I couldn't see that it was even raining up there...I can't get over the violence and magnitude of it."

Will he go hiking up there again? "Yes, because that's not going to happen every day. I'm pretty cautious. This was frightening," Corp concluded.

Rick Chartraw

Rick Chartraw of Sierra Madre said he heard the water for a minute before he saw it. "At first it was like a heavy rain. Then it was just too loud for rain. I was walking my dogs and went over a temporary bridge. Then the ground started to shake and water turned the corner about 150 yards away from us. It hit the banks on the east side of the wash and exploded. There was a six-foot wall of water coming down that wash. It was pure black and the thickness of molasses, coming directly at us. When it hit the bridge it went straight up in the air in a split second. If you'd been in the wash and started to move away, you wouldn't have made it. My dogs and I were about 30 to 40 feet uphill and we could see the water moving 50 to 60 miles per hour. It sounded like a lot of freight trains. At the top of the hill we watched huge boulders go (up)."

Chartraw, who has lived here for three years, said it was one of the most frightening things he'd ever seen. "And I played professional hockey for 10 years. This is much worse," he shook his head in disbelief.

Chartraw works for Disney Company, developing minor hockey programs. He is married. His dogs are named Grendel and Hera.

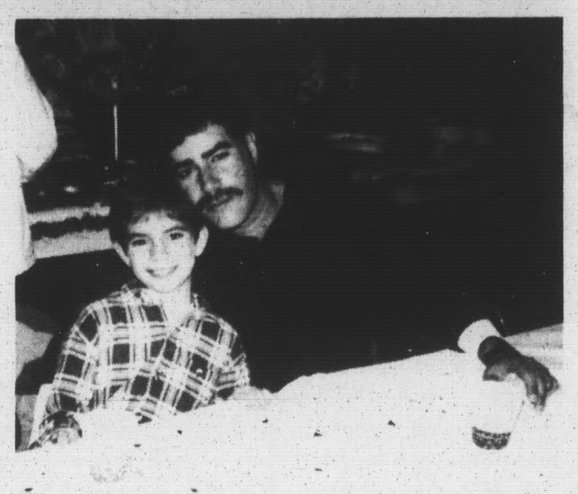

Mike Parker

As a Search and Rescue Team member, Mike Parker has had much experience with saving others as well as himself. When he, his wife Gerd, a neighbor Mike Zadeh, and the Parker dog, Shasta, a German Shepherd, took off for the mountains, they were going for their "Sunday eve constitutional," Parker explained. They thought they would "zoom up the canyon to the first falls (he had taken that same trip Sunday morning)."

He said, "It hadn't rained much and it didn't appear to be raining hard up there (gesturing to Bailey Canyon)." They started up Bailey Canyon and had gone about a fourth of a mile from the monastery when Parker said he heard a rumble. "I don't like the sound of that," he told those with him who said it was probably a jet plane or the rumble of thunder. No, it was neither, he said.

"We turned around and walked 30 yards. It's time to go up the bank, I told them and just after we took higher ground, there came a wall of mud, water, logs, rocks about 12 feet high, going past us very fast. It shook the ground. It came down the canyon with a noise like a freight train. If we'd have left five minutes earlier it would have been much harder for us to get out. We were in the oak trees and thought if we waited a few minutes it would go down and we could follow it down. I knew the spot. I knew we could climb out on the west side. It's an easy walk, but

RESCUE WORKERS DIG AMONG THE DEBRIS THEY BELIEVE MAY SURRENDER BODIES — Rescue workers, a member of the County Sheriff's Department with his dog, are shown near the tower in the center of the Bailey Canyon Debris Basin where workers have spent the last two days, searching for the bodies of John Henderson and his son, Matthew. The pair were hiking in Bailey Canyon when the flash flood and mud slide hit.

Father, son feared dead

John Henderson, 33, and his son, Matthew, 9, are still missing following Sunday's flash flood and mud slide in Bailey Canyon where they were hiking earlier in the day.

Henderson was a paralegal, working out of his Sierra Madre home, and his son, Matthew, attended Bethany Christian School in Sierra Madre.

Although he would rather practice karate, Matthew went hiking with his father because his father loved hiking, particularly in Bailey Canyon. According to relatives, John and Matthew went hiking Sunday morning "on the spur of the moment."

Both were born and raised in the area. John Henderson graduated from Arcadia High School in 1978 and attended a paralegal college to prepare him for his career. The Hendersons had lived in Sierra Madre for two years. Matthew also spent time with his grandparents, Judy and George Henderson Sr., and his aunt, Laura Henderson, all who lived in Arcadia. Also part of the family circle are George Henderson Jr. and his wife, Caroline, as well as four cousins.

Laura Henderson spoke gently about her nephew, saying how much he loved grilled cheese sandwiches, french fries and a coke for breakfast. He wasn't fond of the usual potatoes and meat meals, she explained.

At his grandparents' home he had his own room with a television and computer. His uncle, George Henderson Jr., said that he was "a kind child who loved karate as a hobby. He also liked computer games, was a good student, in the third grade at Bethany Christian School."

John Henderson loved the out-of-doors, particularly the mountains above Sierra Madre. The family reiterated that Bailey Canyon was his favorite place in the area for hiking.

George Henderson Jr. said the family "was doing quite well"; however, Judy Henderson, Matthew's grandmother and John's mother, was having a very difficult time.

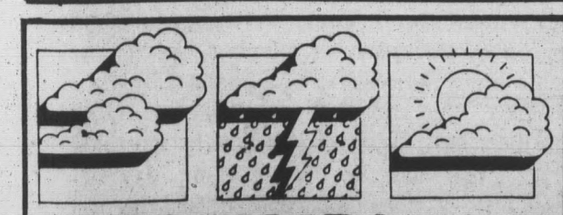

Henderson also said that his brother was engaged to Aki. He explained that Matthew's mother is "out of the picture."

City Council forums planned in March

Three opportunities for Sierra Madreans to hear City Council candidates have been placed on the community calendar recently.

The first forum is sponsored by the Sierra Madre Woman's Club, Wednesday, Mar. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Essick House.

The second, sponsored by the Homeowners/Residents Association, is scheduled for the next day, Thursday, Mar. 24, at 7:30 at city hall. That one will be televised.

There will be no senior forum.

Kiwanis Club will sponsor the third forum, and that will be Tuesday, Mar. 29, at noon at the Masonic Lodge. Lunch is at 12:10 and the forum will begin no later than 12:45 p.m. Those who wish to have lunch with the Kiwanians that day should call The News, 355-3324, the day before, on Monday, Mar. 28, for a reservation.

Candidates include the two incumbents: Gary Adams and MaryAnn MacGillivray; and challengers Andrew Roy Buchan, James Hester and William Tice. The term is for four years and three seats are open. Election is Tuesday, Apr. 12.

Disaster Recovery Center offers flash flood safety tips

With Sierra Madreans in the direct path of debris from the mountains left bare by last October's firestorms, several pointers should be considered. Altadena foothill residents are faced with the challenge of rebuilding as well as preparing for the hazards that may come with each rainstorm.

The street right below the Floral Debris Basin, Sierra Meadow, in Sierra Madre, has already been prepared for emergencies with sand bags lining both sides of the street.

The Governor's Office of Emergency Services, which co-manages the Pasadena Community Disaster Recovery and Preparedness Center, advises residents living below the burned areas to take the following precautions to ensure safety:

- Listen for National Weather Service advisory messages. A flash flood WATCH in the Altadena/Kinneloa area means that heavy rains with mud and debris flow potential have been predicted. A flash flood WARNING means flooding and debris flow are already occurring.
- Be aware that after one surge or "wave" of a mudflow, more surges or "waves" may follow intermittently.
- Plan ahead by arranging a meeting place for your family outside the neighborhood. Purchase emergency supplies that include flashlight, spare batteries, a portable radio and potable water.
- Get out early if your home is at risk of flooding. Be sure to keep the roads clear for emergency vehicles.
- Don't attempt to outrun or outdrive a flash flood. Remember that flood waters and mudflow and mudslides move fast.
- Don't drive across a flooded intersection.
- Don't walk through a stream of water or mud. Even ankle deep water can sweep you off your feet.

For more information visit the center at 3746 Foothill Blvd., Pasadena. It is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

- We have a couple of people in the hospital but who are doing better, according to their spouses.

Barney Westkamper has moved to the Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility and is undergoing treatment for the injuries he received Feb. 7, when he was hit by an auto in the crosswalk in front of city hall.

His right leg was broken in two places and he tore a muscle loose in his left leg. The staples have been removed from his right elbow, according to his wife.

She said, "It's a wonder it (the accident) didn't kill him. He has a good sense of humor and is looking forward to going home."

- Angel Tyler is in Huntington Memorial Hospital with a lung infection. She went in on Mar. 3 and probably has another week there, according to her husband, Mike. Because she is in a special area in which only family can visit her, Mike suggests that anyone who would like to send her a card should send it to their home at 233 San Gabriel Court, Sierra Madre.

- Laurie Cooper's Antarctic trip has been interesting, to say the least. She left on Feb. 20. She was to fly to Miami, Santiago, Chile, Port Stanley in the Falkland Islands, board a ship, the World Discoverer, for the final leg to the Antarctic.

One hitch: Laurie became ill in Santiago. By the time she arrived in Port Stanley, it became apparent that she couldn't continue, and she was hospitalized in the British Military Hospital on Feb. 22.

Fortunately, Laurie's sister, Helen Wilson, from Columbus, Ohio, was making the trip with her and remained with Laurie in the Falkland Islands. Although Laurie was in the hospital (a nursing station) for a week and had completely recovered, she and Helen found that they were marooned. Port Stanley is a major city in the Falkland Islands which are very small and boast a population of about 2000. It is a British Territory and is incredibly isolated, according to Laurie's husband, from the rest of the world. They don't accept American dollars, credit cards or travelers checks, and collect phone calls cannot be made from there.

There is one scheduled air flight out of there every Friday and the week Laurie was released it was completely booked. She and Helen have spent the time seeing everything there is to see there.

Laurie says that the people have been very nice and have taken them on tours of the island, invited them to dinner and have done everything they can to make the women's "stranded" condition as pleasant as possible.

The women are booked on the Mar. 11 flight to Fort Arenas, Chile, where they will connect with a flight to Miami on the 12th. Then they will visit another sister, Florence Neverman, in Sarasota and come home on the 20th. Will she be glad to get home? Yes, but knowing Laurie, she will make the tale about the trip fascinating.

- Michael Sampley, 17, of Sierra Madre and three other youth are convalescing from the jeep accident in Azusa Canyon on Jan. 26. Michael is the son of Bruce Lampley of Sierra Madre, and he plans to continue his recovery with his mother, Rachel Anthony, in Logan, Utah. Michael was released from the hospital on Feb. 3. His mother said that he was airlifted to the trauma center at Huntington Memorial Hospital, and last week he walked out of the hospital.

The jeep rolled over several times and all four were critically injured. Three others are continuing to recover. Michael was severely injured and is recovering from multiple injuries. After several months in Utah, he hopes to return to Pasadena High School in the fall.

Rachel asked me to thank everyone for the tremendous support everyone received. It appears to be a four-way miracle for four families...

Thanks for interest, caring

Thank you so much for your interest and your sympathy with my recent illness. Marian and I cannot tell you how much it means to receive so many cards from so many people in the Sierra Madre area. I would like to thank them individually, of course, but perhaps if you would mention my gratitude to all I would be very grateful.

I am home now. The hospital released me on Feb. 26 so now I just start several months of rehab. Every day I'm a little bit better than the day before but I have a long way to go.

Thanks again, and again thanks to all my friends who sent cards and well wishes.

In support of Thurman

This letter was sent to Interim Chief Thurman with a copy to The News. Ed.

Thank you for your exemplary leadership while you were chief of the Sierra Madre Police Department. Your realm included some firsts—two stand out to me.

The first time the police came to a chamber mixer in force.

The first time our Police Chief walked up behind the Sierra Madre dam and took care of business.

I also believe you saved our city from all sorts of trouble during the fire, by calling your favors from the Sheriff's Departments.

And I appreciate that you listened and solved problems as presented—there was no tabling or ignoring of issues.

Sincerely grateful,
Phyllis Bennet

Arboretum Walks

By Peggy Stewart

Children, families, teachers will be flocking to the Arboretum this Saturday, Mar. 12, for the Environmental Education Fair—the 14th annual, sponsored by the California Department of Education.

We've asked the neighbor children to join us in visiting all the different exhibits featuring natural science education and environmental information. It won't be all serious though, there will be plenty of games and activities.

Funded by the Oak Tree Foundation, the Green City Grants are a special Arbor Day project of the California Arboretum Foundation (CAF). Nonprofit organizations may be awarded up to five trees for their facilities by providing plot plans and demonstrating how the trees will be planted and cared for.

For several days now, awardees have been calling the CAF office to arrange for picking up their trees. In all, 156 trees will find new homes at 27 school throughout Los Angeles County.

Domesticity abounds up by the Tule Pond where the mallards reside. Although we haven't spotted any eggs yet, it is clear we will soon have to "make way for ducklings." Little duck couples, a brightly colored male with his green head and curled tail feathers, and a much more discreet soft brown female, perch together side-by-side on tree branches, nestle among mounding roots, and waddle about on the lawns.

The Tule Pond is a sort of wild place which serves as a bird sanctuary. In the Entrance Rotunda you can pick up a pamphlet listing and describing birds found throughout the Arboretum., Enjoy your walk!

Out and About

By Dick Rogers

~~Friends of mine in Sierra~~ Madre were burglarized a week ago...one of those complete violations varieties with doors kicked in, drawers pulled out and every small item of value in the wind. Make you angry? It makes me angry, and it makes my friends who suffered it furious.

Now, I'm hearing that it has occurred with some frequency in our town. I guess I shouldn't be surprised. They way our little hamlet is laid out is pretty inviting to thieves. Lots of shrubbery, out-of-the-way homes tucked back on lots, working adults whose homes are unoccupied...pretty much a vacant town during parts of the day. What goes on in our quasi-vacant town during the day? More than you think.

We have people floating around with these elastic-bound flyers, advertising everything from carpet cleaning to trash hauling. They are instructed to walk onto your property and tie these things to your front doorknob. People seeking work as gardeners, trash haulers, roofers and general clean-up regularly pop up and down our streets flipping their "business cards" in anything that will hold them. Hardly any of these souls live in our city, and would I be presumptuous to suggest that in their ranks are some who are looking for other opportunities?

The point is, perhaps we need to be a bit more aware and alert to what is going on around us. I'm not sure there isn't a way to prevent people from distributing unwanted or unsought flyers to our front doors. And when you are expecting a delivery, maybe it would be sensible to remove from sight anything which would suggest a "rewarding" return visit for these people.

It also wouldn't hurt to pay attention to what is going on at your neighbor's house when they are away. If there is a strange vehicle in their driveway record the plate number...if you aren't happy with the way things look, call the police...let them check it out. I can almost guarantee they will be there in short order. You might save your neighbors some grief.

'Gimme that old time prescription'

By Harry Martin

The medicines, so-called, were used because they were time-tested and the materials were always at hand. There was no lack of store medicine, far from it. Every drugstore was well-supplied with pills and powders of all description, as well as a large assortment of bottled liquids. Even the mail order houses such as Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward had a large inventory of patent medicine. Most of the liquid remedies of those faraway days contained a hefty percentage of alcohol, but they were said to cure every ailment known to man. Most of the bottled goods were labeled as tonic. One was touted as a sure cure for "brain fever." One of the more common med-icines of those days was soothing syrup for small children. It probably worked because some of the syrups were spiked with laudanum. One hair tonic was said to grow hair seven feet long, and they had the pictures to prove it!

There was considerable outdoor advertizing, even in those days of horse and buggy travel. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (Pink Pills for Pale People), often used the roof of a rural barn for advertizing space. The pink pills were supposed to be just the thing for "delicate females." And, of course, there were Doan's Kidney Pills, pills for lumbago and Nature's Remedy, good for you-know-what. There were corn and bunion removers as well as hair removers. You name it, the patent medicine makers of those days laid a good foundation for the hard sell we see now on television. Many years after the time of which I am writing, a shaving cream company came to grief with its outdoor advertizing. Words from limericks were put on a succession of fenceposts or telephone posts, so that a short limerick could be read by the passerby. They came out with this one, and it was their last. "With bristly face he married Grace...Too bad, he only got one day of grace." It was considered obscene and the offending poem disappeared forever. It seems very tame compared with modern advertizing.

It is an irony that alcohol, considered by many to be the bane of mankind, should play such a large part in the medical world. Almost all tonics, even today, contain a liberal percentage of alcohol. Remember Hadacol? A present day tonic, Geritol, has a more than generous portion of alcohol. Even that old reliable, Listerine, contains 26.9 percent alcohol.

Perhaps those river rats of my youth had the right idea. Just take a medicine that tasted good, killed the pain and was the next thing to a cure. Perhaps they had something.

MOVIE REVIEW

To See, or Not to See

ASHLEIGH KATZ

Juliette Binoche
See! Expecting to see an "artsy" French film? This is that, and much, much more. The young wife of a famous composer is handed a grossly unfair twist of fate, and battles with its aftermath and another odd twist. In portraying this smoldering enigma of a woman, Binoche controls this film with the subtle power of a laser. Another soul-lingering score by the presently popular Zbigniew Preisner is glacé on the gateau!

A variety of miscellaneous items, including furniture, will be sold. Because the sale is just for one day, everything will be priced low for quick sale. Some new items have also been donated.

Landscaper Eva Martin speaks at Garden Club

By Phyllis Chapman

Landscape gardener Eva Martin from Laurels and Mansions in Pasadena will present the program at the Sierra Madre Garden Club dinner meeting on Monday, Mar. 14, 6:30 p.m., in the Recreation Center's Fireside Room, 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Martin's talk will be about organic gardening, and she will give hints on soil composting and will be happy to answer questions. She was born in Vienna, Austria of farming parents and received a degree in music and piano, but her education also included 12 years of botany and biology. Her husband is a movie writer and producer, and as a businessman, ran a landscape business for 20 years. When her husband decided to keep bees, this began their organic research.

They opened Laurels and Mansions, which is located at 1951 E. Colorado Blvd., four years ago, and are expanding bit by bit. Ninety percent of their business is landscaping. Martin finds it "rewarding to translate customers thoughts into the reality of a garden." She has a special love for cottage gardens. Among her other interests is a tree collection in containers that includes 1700 specimens and she has a lifetime membership in the California Rare Fruit Growers Association.

The charge for the catered dinner served at the meeting is $6.50, and the public is welcome to attend. Dinner reservations are a must by calling reservation chair Mary Morris, 355-0772. Please know that reservations must be firm, as the club is charged for each reservation made.

Woman's Club Thrift Shop welcomes discards

By Phyllis Chapman

Are you spring cleaning? Are you going through closets, drawers—even the garage? And to simplify your life you have a pack of stuff you want to get rid of? Please think of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club's Wistaria Shop and how much they need and would welcome your useable discards.

The Thrift Shop is a continuing fund-raiser for the club, with profits going to support local causes—and there are more of those than ever these days in Sierra Madre.

Co-chairs Elma Prunty and Shirley Yergeau and their committee must constantly replenish the shop's inventory as it is a popular place for both the bargain and treasure seakers. Shop hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Yergeau would be happy to provide you the convenience of picking up any items you have by calling her at 355-1346. Or call her if you have any questions.

The shop is located at the rear of the clubhouse, the historic Essick House, 550 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., corner of Sunnyside. The shop also has a telephone number you can call when it is open, 355-7739.

Letters from home

John Henry

Don't know who said it first. Just about everyone has said it since: "Nothing is certain except death and taxes!"

In this election year, almost every candidate at every level says, "No more taxes." As they see it, most folks just don't like taxes.

So another wise observer, resigned to the certainty, noted that "the art of taxation is like the art of plucking geese—to get the most feathers with the fewest squawks."

So while we fret about taxes we can see, like income, sales, real estate, we pay less attention to those that are called something else—auto and driving licenses, all kinds of fees, postage, etc., not to mention those that are passed on to us by others trying to recoup tax monies they had to pay.

This year, a lot of more mature Americans who have had the good luck to make a little money and invest it wisely, will see Uncle Sam giving with one hand and taking it back with the other. If it were not now politically incorrect, we would say he is an Indian giver.

You see, those folks were told that they wouldn't have to pay tax on earnings from municipal bonds. Municipalities liked that. It helped sell their bonds with lower interest.

Surprise! Earnings from municipal bonds are not included as income in computing the amount folks have to give back to Uncle from their Social Security checks. Some will have to pay back up to 85 percent. No, the income is still not directly taxable, but is figured in on the amount John Q. Citizen gives Uncle back to pay the piper.

It taxes the mind of the individual, and the creditability of the government. Which, I guess, is OK. They've taxed about everything else.

Thurman suggests additions in personnel and budget for police department

Interim Police Chief John Thurman at Tuesday evening's Sierra Madre City Council meeting suggested a 1994-95 budget to equal $1,829,550 which adds $556,050 to the past year's budget of $1,272,500.

Why do we need the extra money?

Thurman suggests adding a lieutenant position, an additional sergeant position, two additional officers for patrol, another officer for community relations, another dispatcher/desk operations person, a secretary and a traffic control officer. How much would these added people cost? $395,000, he explains.

In comparison to San Marino and Palos Verdes Estates, the budget is $1.2 million in Sierra Madre; $2.4 million in San Marino, and $2.7 million in Palos Verdes Estates. They have 16 and 15 officers, respectively, while we have 10. Their retirement system is 9 percent with ours at 5 percent. A top step officer in Sierra Madre gets $3388 a month; in San Marino, $3450 a month; and in Palos Verdes Estates, $3619/month.

Thurman believes that the department must take a pro-active stance in the area of training. He said that sergeants must be given the opportunity to receive quality training in the area of supervision and management. Officers must have updated training which could save lives and eliminate civil liability. Another positive training program must be established for the desk officers/dispatchers. "They have received only minimal training," he explained.

To bring the department to minimal standards, Thurman suggests five new hand-held radios, $5500; two new black and white patrol vehicles, $40,000; one solid color vehicle, $20,000; and a recording system for the dispatch area, $10,000. The total is $75,500.

He explained to the City Council that recruitment is difficult because Sierra Madre has the lowest paid police department in the San Gabriel Valley.

"When other departments give examinations, there are between 100 and 300 applicants. In comparison, the test we administered in September had only 14 qualified applicants. The test being given in March has only 11 qualified applicants," he explained.

"Retirement must be 2 percent at age 50. The city must improve its contribution to the retirement plan and improve the health plan for members and their dependents. Pay and benefit must be increased to be more competitive," he said.

Thurman suggests implementing a record management system to include computer usage and establishing a pro-active traffic enforcement program.

"The city's jail operations now meets all requirements for a Temporary Holding Facility. All new employees must have mandated state training requirements such as the present department members have recently received," Thurman said.

He also suggested that the property and evidence room continue to be secured.

"Code enforcement should be placed in the city's planning operations and not in the police department," he said, and added, "There is a critical need to recruit qualified reserves...The size of the reserve unit should be no less than 20. A pro-active reserve program would greatly benefit the city."

Woman's Club hosts Candidates' Forum

By Phyllis Chapman

Sierra Madre Woman's Club invites the community to attend a City Council Candidates' Night on Wednesday, Mar. 23, 7:30 p.m. at their clubhouse, Historic Essick House, 550 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Sierra Madre's city election for three council seats will be Tuesday, Apr. 12. One seat will be vacated by Mayor Clem Bartolai who is not seeking re-election. Running for re-election ar incumbents Gary Adams and MaryAnn MacGillivray. Also running are Roy Buchan, James Hester and William Tice.

Each candidate has been invited to speak for five minutes with a time keeper and moderator present. This will be followed by a question and answer period, with the forum ending at 9 p.m.

Those attending are invited to stay for refreshments and an opportunity to visit informally with the candidates.

Local students get Close Up view of D.C.

A total of 103 high school students and teachers, including Alverno in Sierra Madre, were in Washington, D.C. this month to learn firsthand how American government operates. They participated in the Close Up Foundation government studies program.

The Close Up Foundation is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization that provides firsthand opportunities to learn more about the democratic process and the role of the individual. Since 1971, nearly 370,000 students and teachers have taken part in the program.

Open house for police chief

The community is invited to a reception for newly appointed Sierra Madre police chief, Joe Surgent, on Tuesday, Mar. 15, at 6 p.m. The party will be at city hall.

Surgent will come aboard next Monday.

John Thurman has served as interim police chief since last fall when former chief I. E. (Bill) Betts resigned.

RE-ELECT

GOAL: PRESERVING SIERRA MADRE

ISSUE: CITY FINANCE

MY POSITION: The City of Sierra Madre has seen its fiscal resources diminish over the last several years. The State of California has withheld approximately $300,000 in yearly property taxes and the City has settled several law suits, the largest being the Montery Park Landfill suit in excess of $700,000. The City of Sierra Madre has withstood a serious financial challenge during this period of time. Small cities, in future years, will face the possibility of property tax loss and all of us need to resist this action on the part of the State.

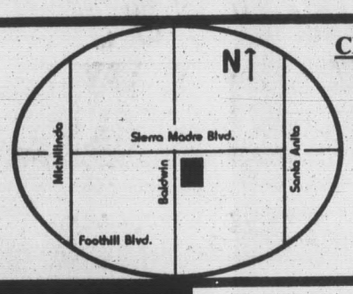

Our present City Council has taken steps to place us in a positive fiscal position by creating an Economic Task Force, a Utility Fee and a Waste Fee. The Economic Task Force is exploring means of creating new dollars, the Utility Fee is replacing some of the lost property tax, and the Waste Fee is being collected to replenish $700,000 in law suit costs as a reserve for future actions. I pledge to you that I will work to keep Sierra Madre in a positive fiscal position, always mindful of protecting the community environment we all love.

Hope makes life bearable

The virtue of Lent is hope. St. Paul tells us that "hope is not hope when its object is seen. We hope for what we do not see." And yet this virtue is not blind. It is not without foundation.

Charles Dickens in his novel "David Copperfield" presented a character by the name of McCawber. When anyone asked him how he was, he had the same reply, "I am looking for something to turn up." He meant that he was waiting for some position to become available to him. His hope, however, was groundless since he had never in his life held a job. Our hope is not like that.

Hope looks to the future but also looks at the past. The biblical message is: what God has done is what God will do. We can trust God. He is consistent. The only surprise will be, not that God has abandoned His loving way of dealing with us, but that He will surpass in the future all that he has done in the past.

The Bible calls us to look forward to the second coming of Christ, to wait in joyful hope for the coming of our Saviour on that great day when He will right all wrongs, and establish everywhere and for all time His kingdom of justice, love and peace.

In the Fourth Eucharist Prayer we acknowledge that "again and again God offered a covenant to His people and through the prophets taught them to hope for salvation." The hope proclaimed by the prophets of the Old Testament was based on God's action of freeing the Israelites from slavery in Egypt and making them His people. This hope was fulfilled when God sent His only Son to free us from the slavery of sin and to establish with us the new and everlasting covenant. God had done not only what was hoped for, but even more.

During Lent, through prayerful contemplation of all that God has done in the past, we receive the grace to nourish our hope, and to make it grow into a mighty and beautiful force in our lives of faith and love. (Adapted from the words of Rev. Charles Miller).

Berlin's song good forever

Irving Berlin wrote the popular patriotic song "God Bless America" for a play produced in 1918, but he did not use or publish it until 1938. It became an immediate hit.

Sierra Madre United Methodist

One preacher saw the season of Lent as a fitting occasion to describe the details of hell to his listeners. His strategy was to scare people into being Christian. Many "evangelistic" ministries use such a strategy, often hitting people between the eyes with the sobering question, "If you were to die tonight, where would you spend eternity?"

Lent lasts six weeks, and by the fourth week, the folk were beginning to think they knew the geography of the devil's territory pretty well. Sometimes there is a fine line between teaching people about hell and making them feel like it. The preacher bellowed, "And in that awful place there will be much weeping and gnashing of teeth!" An elderly woman sitting in a pew near the front spoke up in response, "What if I don't have any teeth?" A pretty key theological question, if you think about it. The preacher didn't lose a beat before saying, "Teeth will be provided!"

Lent can be a humorless time in our churches. But extreme solemnity is not equivalent to Christianity. The famous German philosopher Nietzsche once said, "The redeemed of God should look more redeemed." Just having a long faith does not ensure that one has a great faith.

In his book "The Humor of Christ," Elton Trueblood wrote that humor is the most neglected aspect of the ministry of Jesus in our churches. To seasoned pastors and churchgoers, the words of the gospels seem like old coins, on which the edges have been worn smooth and the engravings have become almost indistinguishable. The words become so hallowed that they reinforce our own inherited assumptions about them, which may actually be contrary to fact. And under the influence of such a bloodless version of Christian teaching, it is possible for people to become so heavenly minded that they're no earthly good.

Jesus had a great sense of humor, and we'll be looking at that part of his ministry this Sunday.

United Methodist Youth Fellowship (UMYF) meets every Wednesday in room 308 at 7:15 p.m. The meeting is open to all youth of the community. Future plans include a camping retreat in Yosemite Valley. Franklyn Shen is our terrific new Youth Counselor.

Worship with us this Sunday—find God, find yourself, and find a friend!

Gloria Dei Lutheran

"The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, 'Look, the Lamb of God, Who taketh away the sin of the world'" (John 1:29).

Traditionally, the period of Lent has been observed as a season of penitence, a time when people could give up something for God. The basis for this is usually rooted in the feeling that if we "do something special for God" He will reward us. This is not what the 40 day period from Ash Wednesday to Easter is about at all.

Lent is not about doing something for God. It is knowing in our hearts what already has been done for us by Jesus, the Author and Perfecter of our faith. (Romans 5:6,8). Lent is Jesus, sent by God to save us from the eternal damnation of our sins, and demonstrating His total love for us, by His determination to complete the task His Father had set before Him, by defeating Satan and suffering and dying in our place, while we were still sinners.

Lent is looking at the perfection of Jesus and knowing that we cannot measure up to God's standards. It is a period of remembering with a contrite heart that we have offended God by our sinful nature. It is a time to reaffirm our determination to come to Jesus, receive Him as our Savior, bow our will before Him, and resolve to trust in Him completely and without reservation. Lent is only Jesus, and Jesus is the only was way to salvation and eternal life. There is nothing we can "do for God" except, as our Lord's redeemed children, to fill our hearts with the joy of loving Him, sharing that love with others, and walking daily in cheerful obedience to Him Who first loved us.

We invite you to join us for worship services on Sundays at 11 a.m. We are located at 186 West Highland, Sierra Madre.

Want a lift?

There are certain people that are liked and admired by everyone. We say that such people have a "magnetic personality." They attract people wherever they go. They are admired even by their opponents or competitors. All of us would like to be lifted up to such a level of respect and admiration, but the questions is always "how?" This Sunday at 10:30 a.m., Rev. Rich Shinnerer will be preaching on "Personal Magnetism" at Faith Lutheran Church, 835 Hastings Ranch Drive (at Sierra Madre Blvd.). The worship will also include the celebration of Holy Communion.

Members and friends of the congregation meet at 9:15 a.m. for an hour of education in God's Word. This includes graded classes for children as well as an adult study group. This Sunday, Pastor Schinnerer is beginning a new series entitled: "God's Plan For You." During the next weeks he will lead the adult group in reviewing the teachings of the Bible as they are believed and taught by the Lutheran Church. This series will also prepare non-Lutherans for church membership at Faith.

Feigned innocence

Midweek Lenten worship continues this week as we examine another "object of the Passion" of Jesus on Wednesday at 7 p.m. This week's object is the water basin used by Pontius Pilate to "wash his hands" of the guilt of the crucifixion. It makes one wonder how often we have tried to do the same thing! The devotional half hour will be preceded by the Lenten supper at 6 p.m. This week's menu is submarine sandwiches. All are invited. There is a free-will offering to defray the cost of the supper.

Singles hear about nurturing

The fee is $4 for YWCA members or $5 for non-members. Call (818) 960-2995 for more information. Singles Club programs are held every Monday evening the third Monday of the month at the YWCA.

Bethany schoolmates receiving counseling because of tragedy of losing friend

Helen Cadloni, administrator at Bethany Christian School, said that Matthew Henderson had been there since pre-school. He loved sports, was very athletic and had just received his blue belt in karate on Saturday.

As of Tuesday evening, Matthew and his father, John, were still missing following the flash flood in Bailey Canyon.

"Matthew was on the quiet side but had a sparkle in his eyes. He loved to play a game called Four-Square in which children hit the ball back and forth with the goal to be server," Cadloni said. She also said that he received "very good grades."

Bethany School called in a professional counselor Wednesday and Wednesday evening to talk with the children in Matthew's third grade class. The counselor will also speak to parents and faculty that evening.

"We have a wonderful supportive school family. It's a small enough school with a family atmosphere so that we can deal with this sort of tragedy. Earlier in the school year a family lost their home in the Altadena fire, and the school parents and children have provided food and money to that family. It's really a blessing. We are so fortunate to be part of this school and church," Cadloni concluded.

METHAMPHETAMINE LAB FOUND IN SIERRA MADRE; SHUT DOWN — Detective John Cordischi of the Sierra Madre Police Department was among local, Monrovia and Arcadia principals who obtained a search warrant to search this home at 17 Esperanza last week. They discovered a portable lab in the garage area where methamphetamines were being manufactured. Two suspects, a male, 16, and Roberto Funston, 21, both of Sierra Madre, were arrested. Funston was arrested for being responsible for the lab and the juvenile was arrested for assisting Funston and allowing the lab in his home. Because of the dangerous situation since most of the chemicals used are hazardous and explosive, the State Department of Justice clandestine lab team was called to dismantle the lab. A company was called to neutralize the chemicals. Arcadia booked both suspects, with Detective Dave Hunkpiller in charge.

Chamber continues with building 'pad' in park; votes to remove DRC from group

At last Tuesday morning's Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting, Mike Delgatto reported that Jeff Nelson would build the concrete pad in Memorial Park for $1550, and would have it completed in "three to four weeks." The chamber decided that there should be another bid before giving the work to Nelson, and Delgatto said he would pursue that.

The board that morning voted 9 to 2 to eliminate the Design Review Committee from the chamber auspices because "the executive board feels that the chamber shouldn't be policing itself," said Bill Sullivan, treasurer of the group.

Jeff Shifs said he agreed and explained that he knows of no such group to be a part of any area chambers.

Don Murphy, former chairman of DRC and a member of the chamber, said, "DRC was a part of the Main Street, and then when Main Street and the chamber joined, it became a part of that entity. I personally feel there's value in having the downtown look as attractive as possible. The group was formed for the regeneration of downtown, not as an intrusion but as a help."

Acting City Administrator Sean Joyce added that the building officials had "made a great effort to assist the chamber there." He explained that it was difficult to enforce something that's not codified and explained that the planning staff "lacks the authority." Joyce suggested that a commission should be formed for that sort of a group.

Delgatto, vice president of the chamber, asked for a written ballot, and the results were 9 to 2 to eliminate DRC from the chamber.

The group decided to look into placing a banner in Arcadia during the week of Mar. 14 to 20, advertising the Centennial Wistaria Fete in Sierra Madre. They also determined to fly a banner in downtown Sierra Madre for two weeks, advertising the fete that is two weekends this year, Mar. 19 and 20, and Mar. 26 and 27.

Delgatto also said that the chamber is sponsoring a whole series with the Parks and Recreation Department for the Concerts in the Park this summer. He suggested that no one spend over $600 for music per concert and said he thought nonprofit groups should get 100 percent of their sales while for-profit groups should pay the chamber a percentage of their sales.

The chamber also decided to sponsor the Concert in the Park on the first Sunday in June, June 5, with a percentage to the newly formed Flag Committee.

NOW YOU CAN RID YOUR CLOTHES OF GREASE STAINS

Civilized countries think they're cleaner than uncivilized aborigines. Why, shucks, we don't let our women smear themselves with deer fat, we wash, the men don't think walrus grease wards off evil spirits. etc., etc.,

Oh yeah!

What about cold creams, vanishing creams, hormone creams? What about the peanut oils, cottonseed oils, lards, etc.? What about all those special lubes on the car?

And so on and on . . . In fact, one of the hallmarks of technical progress in a nation is the millions of barrels of oils and fats it consumes.

So, all I am getting to is this: We stain our clothes with our own body oils. Then we stain them with everything from fatty foods to grimy grease.

And if we're smart - we won't let these stains age and harden. If we do, we lose money on clothes.

DON'T LET STAINS AGE. CLEAN THEM SOON AFTER STAINING. AND LEAVE THEM ALONE. Why not, instead, bring them to . . .

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

Do you remember those stories from way in the '20s and '30s about chorines and gangsters and the lure of vaudeville? Sometimes musicals, sometimes not, but with a cast of characters almost as stylized as the old Commedia del Arte? They often seemed to star George Raft or Edward G. Robinson.

Such a story is "Broadway" by George Abbott, one of the most popular playwrights of the period, this time with Philip Dunning as collaborator, and a few years back it was revived in New York as a tribute to the late George Abbott's 100th birthday. Now the Sierra Madre Playhouse has staged an excellent production of it, well cast, well dressed, well set, and the old familiar formula can still produce some surprises, some laughter and some suspense.

The scene is backstage at a honky-tonk owned by Nick, a rather cuddly Greek, anxious to stay out of trouble. (Joe Legue creates one of his most convincing characters.) His cabaret show consists of an aging blues singer (played with style by Roxanne Barker), a young, ambitious dancer-comedian (Tim Diamond keeps him feisty as well as personable) and a troupe of sharp-voiced, rather world-weary chorines, except for sweet and innocent, but spirited, Billy (Ann Michele Fitzgerald) who sees dancing at Nicks to be her big chance.

Billie is being pursued by Steve, a smooth and dapper bootlegger (Anthony Duke manages to suggest both the aforementioned stars). He has two large, convincing henchmen (Jeffrey McKown and Wade Freier) and one slightly comic one (Barry Schwam).

Fran McCreary is Mazie, the tough, heart-of-gold chorine, carrying on a feud with Ruby (Donna Tucker), the volatile one. Jennifer Caldwell, Sara Jackson and Jennifer Murphy are the others and one of them has a secret past! John Fairly plays a couple of brief roles and Frank Patano is the perfect police detective, canny and street-wise.

Director Jerry Morrison has hit an elegant balance between playing it straight and recognizing the cliches; this is no satire but a lively melodrama. Though most of the singing and dancing is off-stage, Patt Paczynski has provided suitable fragments of dance you see and one quite nice tango. David Calhoun's set is very Art Deco, an imaginative departure from SMP's usual box, and Shon LeBlanc's costumes are exactly right from the cut of the men's coats to several sets of fanciful dance costumes.

Altogether this is an extremely polished variation on the old tradition, full of wisecracks, and, although if you are over 30 you already know some of the plot, some interesting twists.

The large cast seems to be enjoying playing the familiar characters and they give as good a time as they are having. It makes for a relaxed and colorful evening.

"Broadway" plays on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. through Apr. 16, with 2:30 p.m. matinees on Mar. 13, 20 and Apr. 10. Reservations should fill up fast for this one. Make yours at 355-4318.

Lisa G. Lucas

Lisa G. Lucas offers dancing at Rec Center

Lisa G. Lucas, who has been dancing since the age of 4, is offering ballet and ballet and jazz at Sierra Madre Recreation Center on Mondays.

Ballet classes started Monday, Mar. 7, and will continue through Mar. 28 from 4:30 to 5:15 p.m. at the Sierra Madre Recreation Center at Sierra Vista Park. Classes are $30 per child for 5 to 7 year olds.

The ballet and jazz classes started the same day and will also go for three weeks, at the same time. The cost is $35 per child and ages include 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 years.

Lucas has danced with companies in Orange County, Manhattan, N.Y. and in Germany with the Stuttgart Ballet. She retired from professional dancing in 1987 and is currently taking classes in Pasadena.

Ballet is designed to introduce young children and movement and fundamental ballet technique. It also develops coordination, strength, flexibility and balance.

Ballet and jazz is an introductory level class for the student who is interested in learning dance technique. The emphasis will be on the basic ballet technique. The latter part of the class will be devoted to jazz-style combinations.

Session II starts Apr. 11.

Those wishing more information should call city hall at 355-2355 and ask for Delia Garcia-Moriel.

Jerry Logue: 'Won't take you through the wringer'

Jerry Logue of Logue Electric repairs washing machines, dryers and dishwashers. He's been doing it for a couple of years now—46, to be exact. He started when he was a junior in high school when wringer machines were about all there were. He still gets about one call a month to repair one.

Logue Electric will do ALL repairs in your home. They never charge for traveling time and can give you a free estimate over the phone. In fact, you can describe the noise your machine is making over the phone like "glubbity, glubbity," or "clank-a-ta, clank-a-ta," and Jerry, with about 100,000 repair jobs behind him, will know the problem.

Logue Electric covers all of the San Gabriel Valley and has a 24-hour answering service. Same day service is available in most cases.

Jerry is married and has four children. His love of Sierra Madre goes back to his wife's great-grandmother who was born in this town.

He and his wife, Kathy, are active in the community and involve themselves in the Fourth of July Parade and the Rose Float.

One final note: Jerry told me it's true about the "lonely Maytag repairman." He actually gets very few calls to repair Maytag washers...but still, I don't think that Jerry's very lonely at all.

PUBLIC NOTICE
by
COUNTY SANITATION DISTRICT NO. 15
OF LOS ANGELES COUNTY
of
FILING OF A SERVICE CHARGE REPORT
PUBLIC HEARING ON SERVICE CHARGE REPORT,
PROPOSED SURCHARGE RATES,
AND PROPOSED CONNECTION FEE RATE
THE ANNUAL COST OF WASTEWATER TREATMENT SERVICE

The Board of Directors of County Sanitation District No. 15 of Los Angeles County will hold a public hearing on March 23, 1994 at 1:30 p.m., in the Districts' Board Room, 1955 Workman Mill Road, Whittier, California. The purpose of this hearing is to provide the public with an opportunity to make comments regarding the Service Charge Report filed with the District Clerk on February 23, 1994, whether the proposed service charge should continue to be collected on the 1994-95 property tax bill for parcels of property located within Sanitation District No. 15, the proposed surcharge rates, and the proposed connection fee rate. The boundaries of Sanitation District No. 15 are shown below.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Sanitation District No. 15 provides wastewater collection, treatment, and disposal service (operation and maintenance) for the areas shown on the map. In addition, the District also provides for the construction of capital facilities to accommodate the needs of existing users (upgrade) and new users (expansion).

The cost of operation and maintenance of the District's facilities, as well as the construction of upgrade capital facilities, is borne by the existing users of the system. After taking all other sources of revenue into consideration, the remaining revenue required to provide continued services is apportioned to all existing dischargers on the basis of their use of the system. Use is measured in terms of quantity (flow) and strength (chemical oxygen demand [COD] and suspended solids [SS]). The average daily quantity of sewage flow and strength from one single family home is equal to one sewage unit. Apartments will continue to be charged on the basis of 60% of a sewage unit. It is proposed that the basis for charging condominiums be changed from 60% to 65% of a sewage unit. All other user categories are assessed proportionately. Residential, commercial, and small industrial users pay under the Districts' Service Charge Program. Large industrial users pay an annual surcharge rather than a service charge. Some industrial dischargers can elect to pay the annual surcharge using assumed strength parameters established by the Districts (short form rate). Each District also receives a percentage of the one percent general property tax levy on all parcels within that District. Thus, the total annual cost of wastewater treatment service for any given user can be determined by adding either the service charge or surcharge, as applicable, to the property tax received by the District. The property tax had been a reliable source of revenue for the Districts until the 1992- 93 fiscal year, when the State enacted legislation taking away 40% of the Districts' property taxes. The proposed service charge rates reflect the continued loss of 40% of property taxes. It is assumed the Districts will continue to receive the remaining 60% of property taxes.

The Districts' Connection Fee Ordinance prescribes fees for connecting to the Districts' sewerage system or for significantly increasing the quantity and strength of wastewater discharged by an existing user. Revenues from connection fees are used to provide additional capacity in the sewerage system. The connection fee insures that: (1) new users of the sewerage system and (2) those existing users who significantly increase their use of the sewerage system, pay for their proportionate share of the cost of additional wastewater conveyance, treatment, and disposal facilities made necessary by their increased demand on the system. The connection fee is based on the quantity (flow) and strength (COD and SS) of the discharge. The discharge from a single family home is equal to one capacity unit. All other user categories are charged proportionately. Connection fees are applicable only if you are connecting to the sewer for the first time or are significantly increasing your discharge.

CURRENT RATES

Service Charge:	$71 per year per sewage unit
Surcharge Rates:	$384.00 per million gallons of flow
	$67.90 per 1000 lbs. of COD
	$191.90 per 1000 lbs. of SS
	$51.05 per gallon per minute of peak flow
	$1,627.00 per million gallons of flow (short form)

Ad Valorem Tax:1.10 percent of the one percent general tax levy

In order to estimate the amount of ad valorem taxes contributed by your parcel, multiply one percent of the assessed valuation of your parcel by 1.10 percent. As an example, $100,000 of assessed valuation contributes the following:

$100,000 x .01 x 0.0110 = $11.00

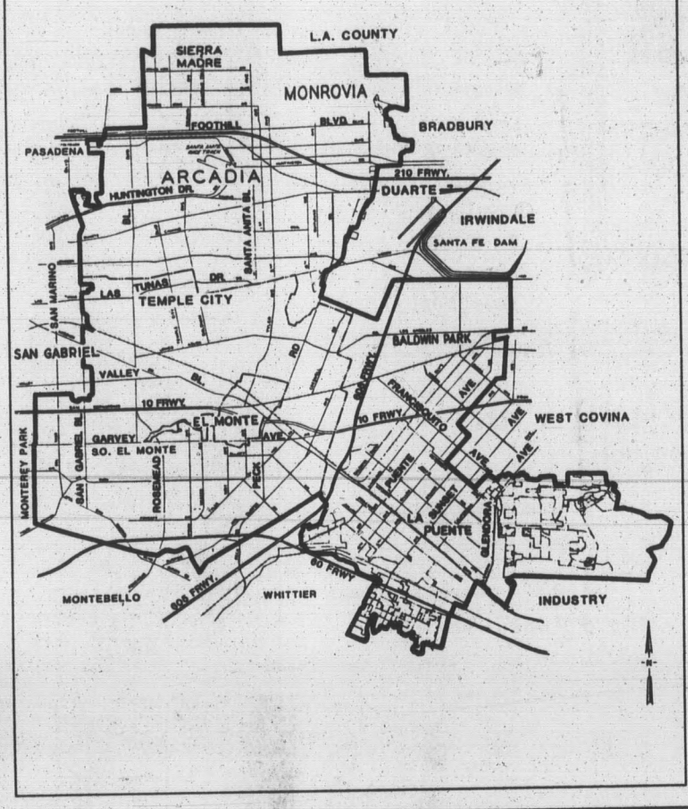

Connection Fee: $1,230 per capacity unit

PROPOSED RATES

Service Charge:	$71 per year per sewage unit
Surcharge Rates:	$384.00 per million gallons of flow
	$67.90 per 1000 lbs. of COD
	$191.90 per 1000 lbs. of SS
	$51.05 per gallon per minute of peak flow
	$1,627.00 per million gallons of flow (short form)
Connection Fee:	$1,240 per capacity unit

Box 4998, Whittier, CA 90607- 4998, and must be received by 1:30 p.m., March 23, 1994, to be considered at the hearing. Know your postal worker

By Barry Schwam

Our postal worker this week is Jeff Hannah, a true "man about town." His route covers all of Sierra Madre, since he fills in for carriers who are absent.

Jeff has been with Sierra Madre for seven months. This was his first job with the postal service, and he waited a full three years, just to be able to work in Sierra Madre.

A few weeks ago, Jeff was making his rounds on West Highland Ave. when he noticed a tray of food from "Meals On Wheels" sitting on the front porch of one of his customers. The customer's dogs, who were usually outside at this time of day, were in the house barking. Jeff went around to the back and saw the woman lying on the ground in a semi-conscience state. She looked as if she had been there overnight. Jeff went to a neighbor's house and called the EMTs.

Everything turned out OK, but the woman will probably not be living by herself in the future. It's hard to know for sure, but Jeff's alertness just might have saved the woman's life.

Jeff Hannah

Aside from his heroism, Jeff is a pretty average guy. He likes to walk and hike, and read the classics. He also enjoys spending time with his 17-month-old son Noah, and his wife, Patience.

dents Association, ever advocated replacing the Sierra Madre Police Dept. with the County Sheriff's services. Whoever is suggesting that we are is misinformed. Our association was formed to preserve and support the quality of life in Sierra Madre, its unique and small town character and friendly atmosphere.

Our monthly meetings are open to everyone, not just the members. We try to provide interesting and informative programs such as Red Cross Disaster Planning, fire prevention, personal and home safety, Search and Rescue and many others.

In providing a forum for an alternate plan, we presented speakers to explain the use of the County Sheriff's services in the event that Sierra Madre can no longer afford its own Police Department.

We avoid endorsing political issues or candidates. We do hope your readers will attend our Candidates Night forum Mar. 24 at the city hall. It will also be televised.

Ask Dr. Tami . . . Pet Corner . . . This pet's for you . . .

Dear Dr. Tami,

My cat has developed small scabs on his back and neck and is constantly licking and grooming himself. My vet says he has flea allergy dermatitis but I don't find very many fleas on him. Is this possible?

Yes. While fleas are feeding off of the cat or dog they secrete saliva into them. The saliva contains histamine like compounds and enzymes that are irritating and cause a cat or dog to scratch and lick at himself. All it takes is one flea bit in an allergic cat or dog to set off the scratch itch cycle. You don't need to have a lot of fleas to develop flea allergy dermatitis. The best way to control the problem is to get rid of the fleas. This can be difficult since fleas reproduce so quickly especially during the warmer months. Flea control must be directed at the animal and the environment. I recommend spraying the house and yard monthly and bathing and spraying dogs and cats on a weekly basis.

If you have a question regarding your pet - write "Ask Dr. Tami", P.O. Box 661270, Arcadia, CA 91066-1270

DEBRIS BASIN SHOWS MUCH ACTIVITY — Workers from several volunteer entities scrape at the 15 feet of mud, looking for the bodies of John and Matthew Henderson who were hiking in Bailey Canyon when the flash flood and mud slide hit Sunday afternoon.

FLORAL DEBRIS SPILLS OVER — The Floral Debris Basin, the only one which is maintained by Sierra Madre, shows possible overflow after the thunderous rains Sunday.

FLORAL DEBRIS BASIN DEEP IN MUD — With 7000 cubic yards available in the Floral Debris Basin, it appears to be about 40 percent full, even though there is runoff of mud and silt down the street. The city recently added 4000 more cubic yards of room to the basin.

SITE OF ROARING STREAM — The section at the top left is where the boiling mass of water and mud came ripping through the canyon to dissipate into the debris basin located at the base of Bailey Canyon.

RESCUE DOG WAITS TURN — One of the eight rescue dogs, belonging to the Sheriff's Department, waits above while one of his friends sniffs the mud, looking for survivors in the Bailey Canyon basin.

RESCUE TAKES MANY HOURS — With several area volunteers participating in the search for the two bodies, Detective John Cordischi of the Sierra Madre Police Department walks up from the Bailey Canyon basin.

DOG HANDLERS WATCH DOG DIG IN MUD — The dog at the right, one of eight brought in by the county sheriff's department, wades in mud, attempting to find the bodies of John and Matthew Henderson, father and son still missing after the flash flood and mud slide.

SEARCH HELICOPTER — One of the helicopters is shown here, searching for survivors after the downpour late Sunday.

POLICE, SHERIFF'S MEN, SEARCH AND RESCUE — Mike Parker, Sierra Madre Search and Rescue member, sits in a truck, outlining for other volunteers plans for the search. With his back to the camera is Sgt. Chris Christensen of the Sierra Madre Police Department. In the middle is Arnold Gaffrey, also from the Search and Rescue Team.

the sheriff's chopper came down and we hopped on and rode out," Parker said.

He joined the Search and Rescue Team then and was able to tell them about those people who were on the trail. "We scoured the canyons to the third waterfall. We did the sides, the earthquake fault. Then today (Monday) we did the same thing. If they (those who are missing) were up there they would have heard us yelling and whistling. They found a shoe that matched what the boy was wearing..."

Parker said he had hiked for years and had never seen anything like it. "It was no one's misjudgment to go up there. The flow at the bottom of the canyon was just a hair more...and it didn't rain on us until we were on the bottom of the canyon.

Parker had a knee operation five weeks ago and has to exercise his knee often.

Gary Anderson

Gary Anderson, Kris Hutchinson, Tom Tomlinson and a friend were on the other side (east) of the peak that separates Bailey Canyon and the Little Santa Anita Canyon. Gary and Kris left about 3 p.m. to go to Orchard Camp; however, the other two came later.

"Halfway up it rained pretty good," Anderson said. "It got harder until we got to Orchard Camp. We were in an oak forest between Decker Springs, a well-known spot on the side of the canyon on Mt. Wilson Trail. We heard a roaring sound and we thought it might be a big jet or hail hitting the trees. Then we saw it, this whole mountainside to First Water that was alive with debris and junk. It was like a locomotive. Kris and I said, 'Can you believe this? My God, it's unbelievable.' I had seen flash floods in Baja and in our deserts. There you wait a few days and it subsides. This was truly a flash flood. The ground became saturated and there was nothing to hold it down. All the underbrush and grass had been burned (in the October fire). We felt privileged to be there and see it."

Did they feel any danger? No. They just didn't know how long they'd be stuck there. It was cold and their clothes were wet.

Would they do it again? Of course. "We felt like we had things under control because we were on safe ground. We were always above the stream. It was a trickle going up and a raging torrent going down, full of mud, debris, sticks, boulders. It's powerful."

He said that Tom Tomlinson and friend were able to get out with no problems, also.

Anderson has bad news about Mt. Wilson Trail. He said it was "horribly damaged. I doubt that the race will go on this year. All side gulches are ripped, some to bedrock. It's passable but will probably be closed."

Six groups assist Sierra Madre in searching for two bodies

Groups which continue to probe the 15 feet of mud in Bailey Canyon Debris Basin, looking for the bodies of John Henderson, 33, and his 9-year-old son, Matthew, include the County Sheriff's Department, the County Fire Department, U.S. Forestry, Altadena, San Dimas and Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Teams. Eight dogs from the Forest Service and from the Sheriff's Department are also employed in the search.

As of Tuesday at presstime, only a child's shoe had been uncovered, and Sierra Madre Interim Police Chief John Thurman said the Henderson family had identified the shoe as one like Matthew owned.

There are 15 feet of mud in the basin, measurable, Thurman said, by the tower which is 30 feet high. The basin is half full since the flash flood and mud slide Sunday.

Water was drained from the basin in the rescue attempt and the mud will be trucked out after it has dried out, according to Kev Tcharkhoutian, Sierra Madre director of public works. He explained that water escapes through a 60-inch-in-diameter pipe that goes underground. The water ultimately travels to the ocean, he said.

What was the cause of the flash flood and mud slide? Tcharkhoutian explained that on Sunday, over an inch of rain came down between the hours of 4 and 6 p.m. just south of Mt. Wilson. That cloudburst in a two-mile-wide area of rain caused the big burst that built rapidly into the roaring torrent of mud and rain that caused so much damage in Sierra Madre canyons.

"Had the rain come down slowly, we wouldn't have had the problem even though the ash is still coming down as a result of the fire in October," Tcharkhoutian said. He added, "This year we are lucky because we have had only 9 inches of rain so far. Last year at this time we'd had 23 inches."

Tcharkhoutian named the debris basins that line the mountains, protecting Sierra Madre. From west to east there is Sunnyside which is northwest of the monastery; Bailey Canyon, Floral, Auburn, Carter (just above Baldwin Ave.), Sierra Madre dam (at the end of Woodland Drive), Lannan, just north of Arno Drive, and a very small one above Lotus Lane and Sturtevant Drive that was originally installed by a developer, then given to the county for maintenance. The county maintains all of the basins except Floral and that is taken care of by Sierra Madre.

Tcharkhoutian said that workers started last week on a six-month program, funded by the federal government for $60,000, to assist Sierra Madre in sandbagging and other work to stop the mud flow. He also said that FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) will reimburse us for the work we have done so far in excavating the Floral Debris Basin, sandbagging, for fire suppression and police labor.

David Cain, Sierra Madre finance director, has submitted a $60,000 bill; however, he explained that FEMA will not approve the whole amount. He thought that they would pay 75 percent and the state would pick up a percentage so that we will be reimbursed for most of what the fire cost us.

"We won't get 100 percent but we'll get a sizable check," Cain explained.

He reminded the community that the bridge that was destroyed Sunday had just been completed at the cost of $15,000.

ARCADIA SCENE
by JoAnn Scott

The scene at Arcadia High School is certainly changing as the school makes preparations for becoming a four-year facility beginning in September. What I've always known as library lawn is the site of the first of what will grow to over 20 portable classrooms. These will be used primarily for music classes as the music building will be expanded, nearly doubling its current practice space.

The ribbon cutting and dedication of the six new tennis courts took place on Tuesday morning, and the old courts along with the outdoor basketball and handball courts are being torn up to make room for the modular classrooms which will accommodate additional students, the ninth graders, fit into the high school scene. School administration thought about selling portions of the tennis courts to nostalgia buffs, but the project seemed unmanageable when looking at the way the courts were being demolished.

Shamila Alam, the acting marketing director at Santa Anita Fashion Park, gave an update on the mall expansion on Monday's Coordinating Council meeting. She reported that negotiations with Nordstrom began back in 1982, and the new 140,000-square foot department store is scheduled to open on August 26. The Santa Anita Nordstrom is the 75th store in the chain and will probably be the last one opened in California as future development plans will focus on the east coast.

Shamila is acting marketing director for the mall, while Jeanie Van Amen is taking a maternity leave following the birth of Simon Max, a healthy 9-pound, 8-ounce boy, on Feb. 22.

Some of the new stores which have signed leases to become part of Santa Anita Fashion Park are California Pizza Kitchen, Lane Bryant, Body Shop, Mother Works and Monterey Pasta Company and Sees has moved into a larger store.

The 30,000 square foot addition to Robinson May is scheduled to open two weeks prior to the Nordstrom opening, according to Shamila.

March is Red Cross month, so Steve Sanderson of the Arcadia Chapter came to the Arcadia Community Coordinating Council meeting on Monday with a new style of first aid kit, which is like a pillow, designed to carry in your car. Not only does it have supplies to treat bleeding, burns, cuts and scrapes as well as shock, but it gives directions on what to do. It also covers basic principles of First Aid.

Steve donated two of these kits which were given out at the meeting; and Rose O'Sullivan and I were the lucky winners. Thanks, Steve.

If you were watching Channel 9 last week when a segment on the new Ms. California Senior was aired, you know that Ruth Lubin of Arcadia was crowned. I have had the opportunity to talk with Ruth, an 82-year-old bundle of enthusiasm, on several occasions this week, and I am anxious to share her story with readers of The News. Unfortunately, there seems to be too much news this week, and rather than doing an abbreviated story, I'm going to hold off until next week, when the news of her new title will be old but, hopefully, our readers will be as fascinated in the story she has to tell as I am.

DeMarzo earns hospital award, dies before awards luncheon

After spending 23 years as a volunteer at Santa Teresita in Duarte, Hospital, Dolores DeMarzo died just a few days before the hospital was to honor her at a volunteer luncheon held in Madonna Hall on the hospital campus.

Her husband, Bernardo DeMarzo, Sr. and three of her four children, Dolores Pi, of Arcadia, Marie Demarzo of Monrovia and Bernardo DeMarzo, Jr. of Upland, attended the luncheon to accept the Gold Bar pin, which was presented in memory of 11,000 hours of volunteer work.

Dolores DeMarzo, a 32 year resident of Arcadia, began her service to the hospital when her daughter, Mary Bernard, went in to the convent. Today, Sister Mary lives in Alhambra.

The late volunteer is also survived by five grandsons and three great grandchildren. She was buried with her newly awarded Gold Bar pinned on her dress.

According to her family, Dolores DeMarzo will always be remembered for her endless generosity, uplifting spirit and, most of all, her unconditional love.

Debris hauled to Santa Anita Basin

Dump trucks bringing debris to the Santa Anita Debris Basin returned earlier this week after an agreement between Arcadia city officials and the County of Los Angeles. Dump trucks brought trees and other debris washed down from burned hillsides to the Auburn Debris Basin above Sierra Madre. The county scheduled hauling for Monday and Tuesday, but indicated that it may go on as rains continue.

The county has agreed to give the city 24 hours notice before it begins hauling into the city, and that will give city staff time to notify the Highlands' Homeowners Association, whose residents are most affected by the traffic and dirt associated with the hauling. In an emergency situation and on the weekends, the police department will be notified. The county will not haul 24 hours a day as in February, and will limit its hours to between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Calvin Wesley of the Los Angeles County Department of Public Works explained that all debris basins in the area are being used, but that some are getting full. Other sites include the Eaton Debris Disposal Area in Pasadena, Lincoln Debris Disposal Area in Altadena and the Manning Pit in Irwindale.

Victim dies after hit and run

A 79-year-old man died from a massive injuries after a hit and run accident at the intersection of Holly and Fairview Avenues about 4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

According to witnesses, the victim was standing at the northwest corner, waiting to cross the street when a red Toyota or Nissan pickup traveling south on Holly struck the west curb, lost control and swerved up on the sidewalk, striking the victim. Witnesses stated that the suspect vehicle never slowed and continued south on Holly. It was last seen turning east on Duarte Road.

The victim, Yen Shaowu, was transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Witnesses described the driver as a male Caucasian or Hispanic, but could give no further information.

Due to the heavy traffic pattern at the time of the accident, the Arcadia Police Department feels that there were other witnesses who observed the accident and who could provide additional information. Call the Arcadia PD at 574-5150 or 574-5160 to report information.

RED CROSS "WORTHY OF SUPPORT"

March is a time to reflect on the tireless efforts of a group of workers who have gone beyond the call of duty to feed, support, and care for their fellow man. These are the Red Cross staff and volunteers, and March is Red Cross Month in which they are being honored in the cities of Sierra Madre, Arcadia and all across the nation. They are over-worked, underpaid, get the dirtiest jobs, and in the wake of disaster rise above it all to help victims in need. In recent months, these dedicated workers have been especially busy. The devastating fires across the southland and the Northridge Earthquake were trying times, as the Arcadia Chapter sent out shelter teams and workers, aiding all the other chapters that went into action. Inevitably, tough times and tough trials bring out the best and worst in us. In disasters when some turn to looting, profiteering, and anger, the Red Cross takes the path of caring, compassion, and generous giving. It is heartwarming to see their efforts come together to help the many who are destitute and despairing. How grateful we should be for such selfless service. It has been that "Until there is no loneliness, no destitution, no sickness, no war . . . American Red Cross." Let someone know you appreciate them this month.

Candidates discuss budget, crime, downtown revitalization

The first of a series of general public forums to hear the 11 candidates for Arcadia City Council found over 120 people hearing from 10 of the council hopefuls in an event hosted by the Arcadia Chinese Association at the Arcadia Community Center on Thursday.

David Sheridan, one of the candidates seeking one of three open seats on the council, was unable to attend because of illness.

After giving a brief statement about themselves and their candidacy, each candidate had an opportunity to answer questions. In response to a question on how to balance the city budget, Mary Young said to cut out luxuries and focus on necessities; Celia Kalm would ask each department to cut its budget 10 percent and she would seek new businesses to increase the tax base; Sheng Chang, who said he would donate his council salary to the police department, would lure new business while helping existing businesses; Charles Chivetta would cut out capital improvements and eliminate the city attorney who would be replaced by a part time attorney; Karen Towner suggested looking at middle management as a place to cut and Johanna Hofer brought up the idea of an ice skating rink, market and opera house at Santa Anita.

Regarding ways to fight crime, Joe Ciraulo told the audience to not be afraid to report crime; George Fasching suggested additional volunteer patrol; Barbara Kuhn asked for high visibility of police patrol; and Ruth Gilb urged residents to be a part of Neighborhood Watch.

A question regarding proposed revitalization for Arcadia's Downtown area along Huntington Drive between Santa Anita and First Avenue brought out the following responses: Towner, "It is a must in Arcadia"; Chivetta, property owners don't like the plan; Chang, there are parking and traffic problems; Young, something needs to be done with care so that the redevelopment doesn't force the Baldwin Avenue commercial area to suffer; Kuhn, sidewalks and trees are a stat, but more is needed; Gilb said she is not sure how realistic the project is.

All 11 candidates have been invited to appear in several other open forums prior to the election on Tuesday, April 12. The Arcadia Board of Realtors will host a Candidates' Forum tonight, Mar. 10, 7 p.m. at the Arcadia Community Center; the Arcadia Business Association meeting with the candidates is scheduled for Mar. 16, 6 p.m. at the Cheyenne Supper Club; the Arcadia Republican Women's Club will hear the candidates on Thursday, Mar. 17 in the Sunset Room at the Santa Anita Golf Course; the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce has invited the candidates for Tuesday, Mar. 29, 7:30 a.m. in the Sunset Room; and the Arcadia Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its meeting in the Arcadia Community Center on Mar. 29 at 7 p.m.

Union supports Ciraulo, Fasching, Gilb for council

Council 36 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents Arcadia Public Works employees as well as other city personnel, has endorsed three candidates for the upcoming Arcadia City Council election.

Incumbents Joe Ciraulo and George Fasching as well as challenger Ruth Gilb were selected because their view for the direction of the city is in the best interest of Arcadia as a whole, according to William Hall, president of the local union.

Suspects arrested after bank robbery

Two male adults were booked on charges of armed robbery and felony evading of arrest after the Bank of America, located in the 100 block of E. Foothill Blvd. in Arcadia reported an armed robbery.

Teron Jackson, 22, of Apple Valley, and Kevin Lee, a 24-year-old transient, were arrested after a pursuit which found police officers from neighboring communities chasing the suspects southbound on the Pasadena Freeway through downtown Los Angeles. The suspect's vehicle, a silver Ford Taurus station wagon, collided with two separate vehicles on the freeway, prior to exiting at Exposition Boulevard in the city of Los Angeles. The accidents were minor and no persons were injured, according to the Arcadia Police Department report.

The pursuit continued on Exposition until the suspects collided with a fire hydrant at Catalina Avenue. Both suspects fled on foot and were taken into custody within minutes by officers from the Los Angeles and Pasadena police departments.

Evidence from the robbery, including currency and a loaded handgun, was recovered in the Taurus, and further evidence was found in a van in which the suspects fled the bank. The van was abandoned approximately two blocks from the bank. A witness told police officers that the suspects had left the van and continued their escape in the Ford Taurus.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, Pasadena PD, Los Angeles PD and the California Highway Patrol are assisting in the investigation of the incident, according to Neal Johnson, Arcadia police chief.

Gilb named president of Welfare and Thrift Shop board of directors

Ruth Gilb has been installed as president of the Arcadia Welfare and Thrift Shop board of directors, after serving on the board for three years. Most recently she was chairman of the White Christmas campaign, which assisted 260 families, including house-bound seniors, during the holiday season.

Gilb, who was named Arcadia Citizen of the Year in 1988 is a director and community service chair for Altrusa and is on the Santa Tersita Foundation Board, the board of directors for Sycamores, a home for battered and abused boys in Altadena. She also is a candidate for Arcadia City Council.

Gilb is a past president of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association, life member of Assistance League of Pasadena, former member of the Los Angeles County Children Services Commission and was a member of the Arcadia Sister City Commission for eight years.

Other officers of the Arcadia Welfare and Thrift Shop are John Pape, vice president; Paul Clark, secretary; Jack Lam, treasurer; and Frank Rose, immediate past president and thrift shop chairman. New member of the board are Bill Kelso, who is associated with a national consulting business; and Dr. Jim Walkenbach, a chiropractor.

Other board members are Hayne Bellin, Robert Haas, Kathy Kennedy, Marian Rodgers, Patricia Williams and John Tipton.

Orchestra Ice Cream Social, Mar. 17

On Thursday, Mar. 17, the Arcadia Music Club will sponsor the first annual Orchestra Night and Ice Cream Social, beginning at 6 p.m. in the North Gym. The event is designed to be an evening of recognition for the Arcadia High School orchestra. Whereas the band has the Spaghetti dinner and the auxiliary guard has a Spring Show, the music club felt the orchestra needed a night of recognition as well.

Orchestra 2 will begin the evening's entertainment with a variety of music including Saint-Saens, "Carnival of the Animals." Orchestra 3 will also be performing. Their performance will include music from Mozart to Rodgers and Hammerstein. Small string ensembles will also perform. The orchestra program at Arcadia High School is under the direction of Tom Forbes.

Tickets are available for orchestra, band and auxiliary guard members, or may be purchased at the door. Adults are $4 and children 12 and under are $2. Balian Ice Cream will be supplying the ice cream, and a serving of ice cream is included in the admission price. Orchestra performances begin at 6:30 p.m.

Bowl-a-thon to help fight drug abuse

Using a play on words, Transformations Family Services has selected "Spare the Life of a Child...Strike Out Drug Abuse!" as the theme of a San Gabriel Valley Community Bowl-A-Thon to be held Mar. 12-13. On Saturday, the fund-raising event will take place at Santa Anita Lanes, 188 W. Las Tunas in Arcadia, and on Sunday at West Covina Lanes, 675 S. Glendora Ave. in West Covina.

Transformations Family Services is committed to halting intergenerational abuse by providing effective chemical dependency prevention, intervention and treatment programs to at-risk families, and parenting women, who are embroiled in the vicious cycle of drug abuse and alcohol misuse, according to Jo Anne Kennon, community programs coordinator for TFS.

For further information about the bowl-a-thon, call 445-6733.

Committee opposes incumbent reelection

For the first time in the city of Arcadia, according to group organizers, a committee has been formed to oppose incumbents in a City Council election.

Six former Arcadia mayors have registered with the Secretary of State and the Arcadia City Clerk as a committee opposing the reelection of Joe Ciraulo and George Fasching in the Apr. 12 council election. The committee, entitled "Arcadia Mayors and Others for Good Government," was formed in response to a Jan. 28 letter sent by six former mayors, who represent over 50 years of service on the council.

The committee, which numbers over 100 Arcadia voters, stated that the poorest city council performance in the city's history has taken place during the past two years, when Ciraulo and Fasching have controlled the new council majority. The committee cites what it terms "mismanagement and ineptness," including the firing of Arcadia City Manager George Watts, and planning director Bill Woolard, as well as the city manager hired to replace Watts. According to information supplied by the committee, these firings have "wasted over $250,000 of the taxpayers' money to pay off these highly paid officials."

"Ciraulo and Fasching have been fiscally irresponsible, causing this year's budget to be seriously out of balance. Rather than cut costs, the council took $1 million from the city reserve funds. But at this point, there appears to be an imbalance of possibly another $1 million, with more than a quarter of the budget year to go," stated Roger Chandler, former mayor.

For further information, the committee can be contacted by writing to "Arcadia Mayors and Others for Good Government," P.O. Box 661831, Arcadia, CA 91066.

Karen Towner announces campaign committee

Karen Towner, candidate for Arcadia City Council, has announced her campaign committee. Serving as campaign manager is John McClain; Marian Travisano is treasurer, and Karen Hannegan is publicity manager.

Lisa Zonver is organizing the "walk to win" project, while Carol Curtis and Shelly Romo are in charge of scheduling several informal coffees for the public to attend and meet and talk with the candidate.

Other members of the campaign committee are Lejsa Allison, Tom Crosby, Gail Jensen, John Kearny, Jack Teel and Amy Towner.

Karen Towner's theme for the campaign is "Focus on the Future: Appreciation of the Past." She has stated that she wants to develop an open and accessible relationship with the citizens of Arcadia, and encourages all those interested in attending a coffee or forum to contact Carol Curtis at 447-0396 for more information. Anyone interested in helping with the campaign can contact McClain at 355-0509.

Towner is one of 11 candidates seeking one of three open seats on the Arcadia City Council. The election will be held on Tuesday, Apr. 12.

Letter to the Editor

Council support

Jack Saelid's recent letter to the Sierra Madre News and the recent letters of former mayors were both untrue and illegal. It defies belief that several former leaders of the community can take such actions as sending out political hate letters without disclosing necessary information to the Fair Political Practices Commission, and then claim they didn't know they had done something illegal. These people have spent over 30 years on Arcadia's City Council, they have had city staff and attorneys to advise them, and we are supposed to believe they didn't know they were breaking the law, we are suppose to believe that they were only looking out for the citizens' best interests. Give me a break!

Just as this conniving group ignored legal realities, they have also ignored the economic consequences of their past inactions. It was not this council who did nothing while Live Oak Avenue, West Arcadia, and our downtown business district decayed and all but died. It was not this council who did nothing while Foulger Ford and Arcadia Nissan and their sales tax revenue went to Duarte and Monrovia. It was not this council that watched Hinshaw's close and the city of Arcadia lost that revenue, while Home Depot Toys 'R' Us, Mervyn's, seven new restaurants and many new shops opened in Monrovia. It was not this council that let the vital infrastructure (i.e., library, fire station and city hall) decay while claiming to be "fiscally prudent." It was not this council that suggested that Target and Price Club were not welcome in Arcadia.

In fact, Mr. Saelid, you led the fight against the creation of Santa Anita Fashion Park, which now produces over $1,000,000 a year in sales tax revenue. When Nordstrom opens in August of this year, that revenue is expected to double. $2,000,000 a year is a lot of police cars, paramedics and firemen, Mr. Saelid.

Arcadia now has a Class 1 Fire Department, and balancing the budget on their backs reduces that department to a Class 2 Fire Department. The fire insurance rates for every homeowner and business operator in the city will then increase. What is the difference between increased rates for all or a tax? Do these former leaders want to raise taxes to balance the budget?

Every city in America has choices. Employees can be cut, services can be cut, needed and necessary capital projects can be cut, and the tax base will decline. The city's $29,000,000 savings account can be reduced by prudent amounts to help us through the rainy days. Why else do we have a rainy day account? (certainly the worst recession in 60 years must count as a rainy day even to our negative former leaders). The third alternative is for the city to grow its way out of the economic problems. It is this council that has brought Nordstrom to Arcadia.

It is this council who oversaw the rebuilding of a new and better Ralph's on Live Oak, and who recently approved a new Albertson's for that area. It is this council who helped bring Burlington Coat Factory to West Arcadia. It is this council that is planning the revitalization of downtown Arcadia. It is this council that has directed its staff to become more business and consumer friendly.

The council does not need the advice of former mayors to watch the economic base decline, it does not need the advice of former mayors to cut police and fire services on the holy grail for balancing the budget. It does need the support of all citizens to help the city out of the current economic problems, and the support for such positive things as Albertson's, Nordstrom, Burlington Coat Factory and downtown revitalization. There is an old saying, "Lead, follow or get out of the way." I believe it is time for the former mayors to get out of the way.

Kronquist homers, relieves in opener

Maranatha High School's girls' softball squad gave up eight runs in the first two innings in a 3-8 loss to Bell-Jeff in the season opener on Friday.

Freshman Amy Kronquist was the relief pitcher, coming into the game in the third inning. She shut out Bell-Jeff while throwing seven strikeouts. Junior Shay Pierson was the losing pitcher.

Offensively, Maranatha got a fourth inning triple from junior Darlene Avolio and a homerun from Kronquist in the same inning.

In the opening round of the Westridge Tournament on Saturday, Maranatha lost to La Salle 2-3 in eight innings.

Junior Becca Evans hit a two-RBI triple in the third inning to give Maranatha an early 2-0 lead, which held until the sixth inning, when La Salle scored the tying run.

Kronquist, who threw six strikeouts, was the losing pitcher.

Maranatha defeated Immaculate Heart 2-0 in the second round of the Westridge Tournament. Sophomore Karen Crabb and Avolio each got an RBI in the win for Kronquist, who had 13 strikeouts. Evans stole two bases for Maranatha.

Maranatha faced Montclair Prep on Monday and will continue in the Westridge Tournament on Saturday, Mar. 12, 8 a.m. If the girls win, they will play again at noon in the consolation bracket.

Evans, third base, and Avolio, catcher, are returning First Team All-Alpha League players from last year's team, which finished in third place in league standings. Maranatha lost to Valley Christian in the first round of CIF playoffs.
